ASIP Holds 'IP and E- Commerce' Training Course

AMMAN - The Arab Society for Intellectual Property (ASIP) held 'Intellectual Property (IP) and E- Commerce' training course, January 5 - 9, 2020 at Talal Abu-Ghazaleh University College for Innovation (TAGUCI) headquarters– Amman.

Over the 15 training hours, participants were introduced to key e-commerce and intellectual property-related concepts.

Other topics included:

- Definition of e-commerce and its relationship to intellectual property.
- Copyright and plagiarism in theses and research studies.
- Intellectual property issues arise when designing corporate website and publishing it online.
- Caution when searching information online.
- Protection of domain names and databases, as well as e-commerce security.

Accordingly, certificates of attendance issued by the Society were given to participants.

ASIP Holds “Substantive Examination of Patents” Course

AMMAN - The Arab Society for Intellectual Property (ASIP) held a training course entitled “Substantive Examination of Patents” January 26 - 30, 2020. The course aimed at introducing the participants to the concept of patents, how to register them, clarifying the procedures of the substantive and formal examination of patents, and how to reject or accept the registration based on the results. The course also highlighted the commercial registration of trademarks and the procedures for their substantive examination.
